

9-cu sinif

AUDIOSCRIPTS

DİNLƏMƏ MƏTNLƏRİ

RECORDING 1 (138 words)

The human skeleton is made of 206 bones. These bones give our body shape and allow us to stand, sit, and move. Without bones, we would not be able to walk, run, or even hold things. The skeleton is strong, but it is also light, so we can move easily.

Bones do an important job of protecting the body. For example, the skull protects the brain, and the ribs keep the heart and lungs safe. Joints, like knees and elbows, allow us to bend and move different parts of our body.

To keep bones healthy, it is important to eat foods with calcium, like milk, yogurt, and cheese. Exercise also helps make bones stronger. Running, jumping, or even walking is good for the skeleton. Taking care of our bones helps us stay active and healthy throughout our lives.

RECORDING 2 (142 words)

The human brain is one of the most important organs in the body. It controls everything we do, such as thinking, talking, and moving. It is like a computer that sends messages to the rest of the body. The brain is protected by the skull, which keeps it safe from injury.

The brain has different parts for different jobs. One part controls memory, so we can remember names or places. Another part helps us move our muscles, like when we walk or pick up something. The brain also helps us feel emotions, such as happiness, sadness, or fear.

To keep the brain healthy, people need to sleep well, eat healthy food, and drink water. Learning new things, like solving puzzles or reading, also helps keep the brain active. A healthy brain is important for living a good life and achieving our goals.

RECORDING 3 (136 words)

The skin is the largest organ of the human body. It covers and protects the entire body from germs, dirt, and the sun. Skin also helps us feel things, such as when something is hot, cold, or soft. It keeps our body safe and helps us stay healthy.

The skin has small holes called pores. These pores help the body stay cool when we sweat. Our skin can also change color. When we spend time in the sun, the skin becomes darker to protect itself from sunburn. This is why it is important to wear sunscreen.

To keep skin healthy, we should drink a lot of water, eat fruits and vegetables, and clean our skin every day. Washing removes dirt and keeps it fresh. Healthy skin makes us feel good and protects us from getting sick.

RECORDING 4 (157 words)

The human heart is an amazing muscle. It pumps blood to all parts of the body, working like a strong engine. Blood carries oxygen and nutrients that keep our body alive and healthy. The heart is always working, even when we are sleeping or resting. It never stops because the body always needs blood.

The heart has four parts, called chambers. These chambers move blood in and out of the heart. Blood travels to the lungs to pick up oxygen and then flows to the rest of the body. The heart beats around 70 times a minute in adults, but it can beat faster when we exercise or feel excited.

To keep the heart healthy, people need to eat fruits, vegetables, and other healthy foods. Regular exercise, like walking, swimming, or running, helps the heart stay strong. Avoiding junk food and smoking also keeps the heart healthy. A strong heart gives us energy for all our activities.

RECORDING 5 (151 words)

Humans have five senses: sight, hearing, taste, smell, and touch. These senses help us learn about the world. Our eyes allow us to see colors, shapes, and movements. For example, we can see beautiful sunsets or colorful flowers. Our ears let us hear sounds like music, voices, or birds singing.

The tongue helps us taste food. There are four main tastes: sweet, salty, sour, and bitter. We enjoy delicious food, like sweet chocolate or salty chips, because of our sense of taste. The nose helps us smell things, such as fresh flowers, perfume, or cooking. The skin helps us feel objects, like soft clothes, rough surfaces, or warm sunshine.

The five senses make life exciting and safe. For example, seeing a red traffic light tells us to stop, and smelling smoke warns us of danger. Taking care of our eyes, ears, and skin helps us keep our senses sharp and healthy.

RECORDING 6 (141 words)

Many people enjoy playing sports in their free time. Football, basketball, and tennis are some of the most popular sports. Playing sports helps people stay healthy and active. It also makes them feel happy and strong. Sports are fun, especially when you play with friends or family.

Some people enjoy team sports, like football or volleyball, because they can work together with others. Playing in a team helps people make new friends and learn how to cooperate. Others prefer individual sports, such as swimming, running, or cycling, because they can focus on their own goals and improve their skills.

Playing sports is not only fun but also good for the body and mind. It helps people relax, forget their problems, and feel more energetic. Spending free time playing sports is a great way to stay fit, improve teamwork, and enjoy life.

RECORDING 7 (143 words)

Reading books is a favorite free time activity for many people. It is a quiet and relaxing way to enjoy yourself. Some people like reading stories about faraway places, while others enjoy magazines or newspapers to learn new things. Reading is great because it can be done anywhere.

There are many types of books to read. Some people like reading about history or science to understand the world better. Others enjoy exciting stories, like mysteries or adventures. Children often read colorful storybooks with fun characters and pictures. Reading is a good way to pass time on rainy days.

Reading books is not only fun but also useful. It improves imagination, vocabulary, and knowledge. You can learn about the past, discover new ideas, or simply escape into a story. Reading helps people grow smarter and more creative. It is a hobby everyone can enjoy.

RECORDING 8 (138 words)

Spending time outdoors is one of the best ways to enjoy free time. Many families go to parks, beaches, or gardens to relax on weekends. Children love playing on swings, running on the grass, or building sandcastles at the beach. Nature makes people feel happy and free.

Some people enjoy walking or jogging in the fresh air. They like looking at trees, flowers, and small animals. Others enjoy outdoor activities like biking, hiking, or camping with friends and family. Having a picnic in the park is also a fun way to enjoy time outside.

Spending time outdoors is good for both the body and mind. The fresh air and sunlight make people feel healthy and energetic. It is a wonderful way to relax, stay active, and connect with nature. Outdoor activities are a great choice for free time.

RECORDING 9 (137 words)

Watching movies is a fun and relaxing free time activity. People enjoy going to the cinema or watching movies at home. It is a great way to spend time with family or friends. Movies can make you laugh, cry, or feel excited. They also take you to new places through their stories.

There are many kinds of movies to watch. Some people like action or adventure films, while others prefer romantic or funny movies. Children enjoy watching animated films with colorful characters and fun stories. Documentaries are also popular because they teach about real-life topics.

Watching movies is not just fun but also educational. It can teach you about history, science, or different cultures. Movies help people relax and enjoy their free time. Whether at the cinema or at home, movies make free time entertaining and special.

RECORDING 10 (140 words)

Drawing and painting are creative and relaxing free time activities. People use pencils, crayons, or paints to make beautiful pictures. Children love drawing animals, houses, or rainbows. Adults often enjoy painting landscapes, flowers, or abstract art with shapes and colors.

Art allows people to express their emotions and ideas. Some people like drawing pictures of things they see, such as trees or mountains. Others create art from their imagination. Painting is also a way to remember special places or events by putting them on paper or canvas.

Spending time on art is good for the mind. Drawing and painting help people feel calm and happy. It is a fun way to relax after a busy day. Art brings joy and creativity to life, making it a great way to spend free time. Everyone can enjoy creating something unique through art.

RECORDING 11 (144 words)

Pizza is one of the most famous foods from Italy. It is made with flat bread, tomato sauce, and cheese. People can add many toppings like mushrooms, vegetables, or pepperoni. Pizza is baked in a hot oven until the cheese melts and the crust turns golden.

The most traditional pizza is called Margherita. It has tomato, mozzarella cheese, and fresh basil leaves. This pizza was created in Naples and represents the colors of the Italian flag: red, white, and green. Over time, many countries have created their own versions of pizza with unique flavors and ingredients.

Pizza is enjoyed all over the world. It is served in restaurants, fast-food places, and even homemade. People often eat it at parties, family dinners, or casual gatherings. Whether it is a simple Margherita or a pizza with many toppings, this dish brings joy and deliciousness to everyone.

RECORDING 12 (145 words)

Sushi is a traditional Japanese food that is loved worldwide. It is made with rice, fish, or vegetables. The rice is mixed with vinegar to give it a special flavor. Fresh fish, vegetables, or eggs are placed with the rice to create colorful and tasty dishes.

There are many types of sushi, such as nigiri, maki, and sashimi. Nigiri is small rice pieces with fish on top, while maki is rolled sushi wrapped in seaweed. Sashimi is thin slices of raw fish served without rice. Sushi is often eaten with soy sauce, pickled ginger, and wasabi for extra flavor.

Sushi is not only delicious but also healthy. It is low in fat and high in nutrients. People in Japan eat sushi on special occasions, but it is now popular in many countries. Its fresh taste and beautiful presentation make sushi a favorite food for millions.

RECORDING 13 (144 words)

Curry is a flavorful dish that comes from India. It is made with vegetables, meat, or fish cooked in a thick and spicy sauce. The sauce is prepared using onions, tomatoes, garlic, and a mix of spices like turmeric, cumin, and chili powder. Every curry recipe has a unique taste.

Indian curries come in different flavors and levels of spiciness. Some, like butter chicken, are mild and creamy, while others, like vindaloo, are very spicy. Curries are usually served with steamed rice or Indian bread like naan or roti. Yogurt is sometimes added to make the curry less spicy.

People love Indian curry for its rich taste and bright colors. It is enjoyed in India and many other countries. Cooking curry is a special skill, and every family has its own recipe. Eating curry with family and friends is a delicious and memorable experience.

RECORDING 14 (143 words)

Tacos are a traditional and popular food from Mexico. They are made with tortillas, which are small, round flatbreads. Inside the tortillas, people add fillings like meat, beans, cheese, and vegetables. Tacos are often topped with salsa, guacamole, or sour cream for extra flavor.

There are many types of tacos. Soft tacos are made with soft tortillas, while crispy tacos have fried tortillas. Fish tacos are popular in coastal areas, while beef or chicken tacos are enjoyed everywhere. Each taco can be customized with favorite ingredients, making it unique.

Tacos are loved worldwide because they are tasty and easy to eat. They are served at food trucks, restaurants, and at home. Many families prepare tacos for dinner, letting everyone choose their own fillings. Tacos bring a piece of Mexican culture to every meal, and they are perfect for sharing with friends and family.

RECORDING 15 (140 words)

Croissants are a famous food from France. They are light, flaky pastries made with butter, flour, and yeast. Their crescent shape and golden color make them special. The process of making croissants takes time because the dough is folded many times to create thin, buttery layers.

People usually eat croissants for breakfast. They can enjoy them plain or with butter, jam, or chocolate. In France, croissants are often served with a cup of coffee or tea. Their crispy outside and soft inside make them a perfect morning treat.

Croissants are not only popular in France but also around the world. Many bakeries and cafes sell fresh croissants every day. People love their rich, buttery taste. Eating a croissant is like having a small piece of France on your plate. Whether for breakfast or a snack, croissants are loved by everyone.

RECORDING 16 (158 words)

Forests are beautiful and peaceful places full of trees, plants, and animals. They cover large parts of the Earth and grow in many climates, from cold areas to tropical regions. Trees in forests produce oxygen, which is important for all living things to breathe. That is why forests are called the "lungs of the Earth."

Forests are home to many animals and plants. Birds, deer, squirrels, and bears live in forests. In rainforests, you can find monkeys, colorful parrots, and even snakes. Forests also have many kinds of plants, flowers, and fruits. People visit forests to hike, camp, and enjoy the beauty of nature. Walking through a forest is a great way to relax.

Forests are very important for the planet. They help control the climate and stop soil erosion. Unfortunately, many forests are being cut down. To protect them, we need to plant more trees and stop deforestation. Forests make the Earth greener and healthier for everyone.

RECORDING 17 (148 words)

The ocean is a vast body of saltwater that covers about 70% of the Earth's surface. It is home to thousands of sea creatures, such as fish, whales, dolphins, and turtles. Oceans also have plants like seaweed and beautiful coral reefs. People enjoy swimming, surfing, and diving in the ocean.

Oceans are very important for life on Earth. They give us food like fish, crabs, and shrimp. Oceans also produce oxygen, which we need to breathe. The ocean helps regulate the Earth's temperature by absorbing heat from the sun and keeping the planet cool. Without oceans, life on Earth would not exist.

Sadly, oceans are facing problems like pollution. Plastic waste and chemicals harm sea animals and plants. To protect the ocean, people should recycle and avoid throwing trash into the water. Keeping the ocean clean is important for the health of the planet and all living things.

RECORDING 18 (153 words)

Mountains are tall, rocky areas of land that rise high above the ground. They are found on every continent and are often covered with forests or snow. Some mountains, like the Alps and the Himalayas, are famous for their beauty. Mountains are home to animals like goats, eagles, and bears.

Mountains are very important for the environment and people. Snow from mountains melts into rivers, providing fresh water for drinking, farming, and cooking. People also visit mountains for fun activities like hiking, skiing, and camping. Climbers from all over the world try to reach the top of mountains like Mount Everest, which is the highest mountain on Earth.

Mountains need to be protected from harm. Cutting down trees or mining can damage mountains and cause landslides. Planting trees and taking care of the environment helps keep mountains safe. Mountains are beautiful and important parts of nature that we must protect for future generations.

RECORDING 19 (147 words)

Rivers are long, flowing streams of water that travel across the land. They begin in mountains or hills and flow into lakes, seas, or oceans. Rivers provide water for people to drink, cook, and grow food. Many cities and villages are built near rivers because water is so important.

Rivers are also home to many animals and plants. Fish, frogs, ducks, and turtles live in and around rivers. People love spending time near rivers. They go fishing, swimming, or boating. Famous rivers like the Nile in Africa and the Amazon in South America are known all over the world.

Unfortunately, many rivers are polluted by trash and harmful chemicals. This pollution hurts the animals that live in rivers and makes the water unsafe for people. To protect rivers, people should recycle and avoid throwing garbage into the water. Clean rivers help the planet stay healthy and beautiful.

RECORDING 20 (147 words)

Deserts are dry areas of land that get very little rain. They are often hot during the day and cold at night. Deserts have lots of sand, rocks, and very few plants. The most common desert plants are cacti because they can store water in their thick stems.

Deserts are home to animals like camels, lizards, snakes, and foxes. These animals are adapted to survive in extreme heat with little water. People also live in deserts, but they need to find ways to stay cool and save water. Desert towns often use solar energy because of the strong sunlight.

Deserts are unique and beautiful places with amazing landscapes. However, climate change is making some deserts even drier. To protect deserts, people can plant trees and use water carefully. Deserts are an important part of our planet, and taking care of them helps protect nature for the future.

RECORDING 21 (149 words)

Good manners begin at home, where we learn to be kind and respectful. Saying "please" and "thank you" is very important when speaking to family members. For example, when you ask your mom for a glass of water, say "please," and don't forget to say "thank you" when she gives it to you. These small words make everyone feel appreciated.

Helping out at home also shows good manners. You can help by cleaning your room, setting the table, or putting away your toys. Sharing things with siblings, like toys or books, is another way to show kindness. When everyone helps and shares, home becomes a happier place.

Good manners create peace and love at home. Listening to your parents and speaking politely to your family members make the environment calm and friendly. If everyone uses good manners, the home becomes a place where everyone feels respected and cared for.

RECORDING 22 (149 words)

Good manners at school help everyone feel respected. Saying "hello" to your teachers and classmates at the start of the day is polite. Always listen carefully when someone is talking and wait for your turn to speak. These simple actions show respect and help everyone feel included.

Following school rules is an important part of showing good manners. For example, raise your hand before asking a question, stay quiet during lessons, and do your homework on time. Helping classmates when they need it, like sharing a pencil or explaining something, is a kind and thoughtful act.

Good manners make school a better place for everyone. Being polite to your teachers and friends helps you build strong relationships. When everyone follows the rules and treats others with respect, the classroom becomes a fun, friendly, and productive place to learn.

RECORDING 23 (141 words)

Good table manners are important when eating with others. Before eating, always wash your hands to stay clean and healthy. When you sit at the table, sit up straight and don't play with your food. Using a napkin to keep your hands and face clean is also a good habit.

Saying "please" when asking for food and "thank you" when you receive it shows respect to others. Chew your food quietly and never talk with your mouth full, as it is not polite. If you want to leave the table, ask for permission first.

Table manners make eating together more enjoyable. Whether you are at home, in a restaurant, or at a party, being polite makes the meal pleasant for everyone. When you follow good table manners, people will appreciate your behavior, and you will feel confident in any dining situation.

RECORDING 24 (143 words)

Rules on the road are important for everyone's safety. When crossing the street, always use a zebra crossing or crosswalk. Look both ways to check for cars and wait for the green light before crossing. These simple actions can prevent accidents and keep pedestrians safe.

Drivers and cyclists also have important rules to follow. Drivers must stop at red lights, drive at a safe speed, and always wear seat belts. Cyclists should wear helmets and stay in the bicycle lane. People walking, driving, or cycling must pay attention to road signs and signals.

Following road rules helps avoid accidents and keeps everyone safe. It also makes traveling easier and less stressful. By showing good road manners, like giving way to others and being patient, you help make roads safer for everyone. Being careful on the road is an important part of being responsible.

RECORDING 25 (139 words)

Good manners in public places show respect to others and make the community a better place. For example, say "excuse me" when passing someone, or "sorry" if you accidentally bump into someone. These small words show that you care about others' feelings.

In public places like parks, buses, or shops, it is important to be polite and quiet. Avoid making loud noises or disturbing others. If you are in a queue, wait patiently for your turn and do not push. Sharing space and respecting others' time creates a friendly atmosphere.

Manners in public are important for building a kind and respectful community. Saying "thank you" to workers, like shop assistants or bus drivers, shows appreciation for their efforts. When everyone uses good manners in public, it makes life more pleasant for everyone, creating a sense of kindness and respect.

RECORDING 26 (153 words)

A caravan is a small, movable home on wheels. People can drive it to different places and live inside it. Caravans are popular for holidays because they let families travel and stay anywhere. Inside a caravan, there is usually a bed, a small kitchen, and a table. Some caravans even have bathrooms.

Living in a caravan is exciting because you can wake up in a new place every day. Some people park near beaches, while others choose forests, mountains, or campsites. It feels like an adventure to live close to nature. Many families enjoy caravans for road trips because they combine travel and comfort.

However, living in a caravan can also be challenging. The space is small, so people must pack only what they need. Cooking and cleaning can also be tricky in such a small area. Still, the freedom to explore new places makes caravans a fun and unique way to live.

RECORDING 27 (139 words)

Some people live and work in space! Astronauts stay in a space station that orbits the Earth. Inside, they have bedrooms, a small kitchen, and special machines for exercise. The space station is carefully designed to help astronauts live in zero gravity.

Life in a space station is very different from life on Earth. Astronauts float because there is no gravity. They eat food from small packets and drink water through straws to prevent spills. They also use special toilets and showers because water behaves differently in space.

Living in a space station can be exciting but also difficult. Astronauts are far from their families and must follow strict schedules. They spend months in space, doing scientific experiments and repairs. However, they enjoy amazing views of the Earth from the windows and feel proud to contribute to space exploration.

RECORDING 28 (142 words)

A houseboat is a home that floats on water. People live in houseboats on rivers, lakes, or even the sea. Inside, houseboats often have bedrooms, a kitchen, and a bathroom. Some houseboats are small and simple, while others are large and luxurious.

Living in a houseboat is peaceful and relaxing. People wake up to the sound of water and enjoy beautiful views of the sunrise or sunset. Some houseboats can move, so families can travel to new places while living on the water. Fishing is also a common activity for people living on houseboats.

However, houseboat living also has challenges. People must be careful with water and electricity, as these can be limited. Bad weather, like storms, can make the boat rock and cause problems. Still, many people love the calm and unique experience of living on a houseboat, surrounded by nature.

RECORDING 29 (147 words)

A treehouse is a small home built high in a tree. While treehouses are often made for fun, some people live in them full-time. Treehouses are usually made of wood and are connected to the tree trunk. Many have ladders, stairs, or rope bridges to climb up and down.

Living in a treehouse is a special experience because it feels close to nature. People can hear birds singing and watch animals from their windows. Some treehouses are in forests or parks, surrounded by greenery. They often have small kitchens, bedrooms, and even electricity to make life comfortable.

Life in a treehouse can also be challenging. People need to climb carefully, especially when carrying food or water. Weather can also be a problem because strong winds or rain can shake the tree. Despite these challenges, many people enjoy the peace and beauty of living high above the ground.

RECORDING 30 (146 words)

An igloo is a home made of snow, used by people in very cold places like the Arctic. The snow is packed tightly to create strong walls that keep out the wind. Inside, igloos are surprisingly warm. People use animal skins and fur to make the space comfortable.

Living in an igloo is very different from living in a regular house. The snow walls trap heat, and a small fire or oil lamp keeps the inside warm. Families often live together in one igloo to share heat. They cook simple meals and sleep close together.

However, igloos are only temporary homes. When the snow melts, people must move to a new place. Building an igloo takes skill and experience, but it is a smart way to survive in extreme cold. Igloos show how people can adapt to even the harshest environments and live close to nature.

RECORDING 31 (152 words)

Greta Thunberg is a young changemaker from Sweden. She became famous for her work to fight climate change. At just 15 years old, she started skipping school on Fridays to protest outside the Swedish parliament. She called her protest "Fridays for Future" and asked the government to take action on climate change.

Greta's actions inspired millions of young people around the world to join her. She travels to different countries to speak at important meetings about the environment. Greta tells leaders to stop using so much coal and oil and to protect forests. She believes even small actions, like recycling and saving energy, can make a big difference.

Greta's work shows that anyone can make a change, no matter how young they are. Her courage and determination inspire others to care for the planet. Greta is proof that one person can start a global movement and make the world a better place.

RECORDING 32 (151 words)

Malala Yousafzai is a changemaker from Pakistan who fights for girls' education. When Malala was young, some people in her country did not allow girls to go to school. Malala believed this was unfair, so she spoke out about the importance of education, even though it was dangerous.

In 2012, Malala was hurt in an attack because of her fight for education. However, she did not give up. She continued her mission and became a global voice for children's education. Malala wrote a book called I Am Malala and started the Malala Fund to help girls around the world go to school.

Malala's bravery inspires people everywhere. She is the youngest person to win the Nobel Peace Prize, an award for people who work for peace. Her story teaches us that education is powerful and that everyone deserves a chance to learn. She shows how one person can change the world.

RECORDING 33 (149 words)

Martin Luther King Jr. was a changemaker in the United States who fought for equality. In the 1960s, there were unfair rules in America that treated Black people differently. They could not use the same buses, schools, or restaurants as white people. Martin believed these rules were wrong and wanted to change them peacefully.

Martin gave famous speeches, like his "I Have a Dream" speech, where he talked about a future where all people are treated equally. He also led marches and protests to inspire others to work for equality. Martin believed that love and peace were stronger than hate and violence.

His work helped to change unfair laws and gave hope to millions of people. Martin Luther King Jr. is remembered as one of the greatest changemakers in history. His dream of fairness and unity continues to inspire people around the world to work for a better future.

RECORDING 34 (143 words)

Mother Teresa was a changemaker who dedicated her life to helping the poor and sick. She was born in Macedonia but moved to India, where she saw many people suffering. She decided to help them by starting a group called the Missionaries of Charity.

Mother Teresa believed in the power of small acts of kindness. She built homes for people who had nowhere to live and cared for those who were sick or hungry. Her group of helpers worked in many countries, giving food, medicine, and love to millions of people.

Mother Teresa won the Nobel Peace Prize for her work. She showed that you do not need to be rich or powerful to make a difference. Her life reminds us that helping others is one of the best ways to change the world. Her kindness and love continue to inspire people everywhere.

RECORDING 35 (99 words)

Elon Musk is a modern changemaker who uses technology to solve global problems. He is the founder of Tesla, SpaceX, and SolarCity. Elon believes in creating new solutions for the environment, energy, and space exploration. His ideas aim to make the future better for everyone.

Tesla produces electric cars that help reduce air pollution by using batteries instead of fuel. These cars are popular worldwide and show that sustainable transportation is possible. SpaceX, another of Elon's companies, works on building rockets to explore space. Elon dreams of creating a colony on Mars so humans can have a second home. SolarCity focuses on providing clean energy by using solar panels for homes and businesses.

Elon Musk inspires people to think big and work hard to achieve their goals. His projects show how creativity and determination can bring positive change. Elon's work proves that technology can solve challenges like climate change and space exploration, making him a true changemaker.

RECORDING 36 (154 words)

Schools in Japan are known for their discipline and teamwork. Students start their day by greeting their teachers and classmates with a bow. Classes usually begin at 8:30 a.m. and end in the afternoon. Students study many subjects, including math, science, history, and art. Learning English is also an important part of their education.

Japanese schools teach more than just academics. Students clean their classrooms, hallways, and even bathrooms every day. This teaches them responsibility, teamwork, and respect for their environment. During lunchtime, students eat together in their classrooms. They take turns serving food to their classmates, which helps build a sense of community.

After school, many students participate in clubs. These include sports teams, music groups, or art clubs. Club activities help students make friends, learn new skills, and have fun. Education in Japan focuses on both academic success and building good character, making it one of the best systems in the world.

RECORDING 37 (151 words)

Finland is famous for having one of the best education systems in the world. Schools in Finland focus on creativity, problem-solving, and happiness. Students start school at the age of seven, which is later than in most countries. Teachers believe it is important for children to enjoy their early childhood.

Finnish schools do not give much homework because teachers believe students learn better by playing and exploring. Classes are small, with around 20 students, so teachers can give personal attention to everyone. Teachers are highly trained and respected, and they create a relaxed and supportive environment for learning.

Students in Finland have long breaks during the school day. They play outside, relax, or chat with their friends. These breaks help them stay focused in class. The Finnish system shows that learning does not have to be stressful. With creative lessons and happy students, Finland's schools are a model for the world.

RECORDING 38 (148 words)

Schools in Kenya are an important part of children's lives. In cities, schools often have proper classrooms, desks, and books. However, in rural villages, schools may look very different. Some children study under trees or in simple buildings with few resources.

Kenyan students wear uniforms to school. They study core subjects like English, math, science, and social studies. Some schools also teach Kiswahili, which is a national language of Kenya. Many students walk long distances to reach school because transportation is not available in rural areas. Despite these challenges, children enjoy learning and work hard to achieve their goals.

Schools in Kenya teach students the value of education. Teachers encourage children to dream big and believe in a better future. Many families see education as a way to escape poverty and improve their lives. Kenyan schools are places of hope, where hard work and determination lead to success.

RECORDING 39 (151 words)

Schools in the United States offer many opportunities for students. Most children start school at the age of five or six. They attend elementary school, middle school, and high school before deciding on college or a career. Education in the U.S. is divided into grades, from kindergarten to grade 12.

American schools teach a wide range of subjects, including math, history, art, and music. In high school, students can choose elective classes like cooking, drama, or computer science. Schools also offer many activities, such as sports teams, drama clubs, and student councils. These programs help students explore their interests and develop leadership skills.

Schools in the U.S. encourage creativity and independence. Teachers often ask students to work on group projects and share their ideas in class. Education focuses on teamwork and problem-solving, along with academics. American schools prepare students for both work and life by teaching practical skills and encouraging curiosity.

RECORDING 40 (144 words)

Schools in India are colorful and lively places. Most children wear uniforms and start their day with morning prayers or assemblies. Classes begin early and continue until the afternoon. Students study important subjects like math, science, English, and their local language.

Many Indian schools focus on exams and grades. Students work hard to perform well in their studies because education is highly valued. Schools also celebrate cultural events and festivals. During these events, children wear traditional clothes, sing songs, and perform dances. These activities teach students about their country's rich culture and traditions.

In addition to academics, Indian schools teach respect for teachers and elders. Parents encourage their children to study hard and aim for a bright future. Education in India is seen as the key to success. Schools combine learning with cultural values, making them a place where children grow academically and socially.

RECORDING 41 (157 words)

The internet is one of the greatest inventions in modern technology. It allows people to connect, learn, and share information from anywhere in the world. With the internet, we can send emails, watch videos, read news, and search for answers to almost any question. It has made communication and learning much easier.

The internet is used for many purposes. Students can use it to study and do research for their homework. Workers can attend online meetings, send important files, and work from home. Families and friends stay connected through video calls and messages, even if they live in different countries. Shopping, banking, and watching movies are also possible online.

However, the internet has some challenges. Spending too much time online can affect health, and not all information is true. People must use it wisely and safely. Despite these issues, the internet has completely changed how we live and continues to be an important part of daily life.

RECORDING 42 (157 words)

Smartphones are small but powerful devices that have changed how people live and communicate. With a smartphone, you can call or text anyone, no matter where they are. These devices also allow you to use apps for learning, entertainment, and staying organized. Smartphones are an essential part of modern life.

Many people use smartphones to take photos, play games, or listen to music. Apps like GPS help people find directions, while messaging apps make it easy to stay in touch with friends and family. Smartphones are like tiny computers that fit in your pocket, giving you access to the internet, cameras, and tools for everyday life.

While smartphones are very useful, they also have downsides. Looking at the screen too much can hurt your eyes, and people sometimes spend too much time on their phones instead of talking to others. Still, smartphones have made communication faster and life more convenient for millions of people around the world.

RECORDING 43 (153 words)

Robots are machines that can do tasks for people. They are used in many fields, such as factories, hospitals, and homes. In factories, robots help build cars or assemble products quickly and safely. In hospitals, some robots perform surgeries or deliver medicine to patients. They are also used for dangerous jobs, like exploring deep oceans or outer space.

Robots are becoming smarter thanks to new technology. Some robots can talk, recognize faces, and even learn new things. Robots like vacuum cleaners can clean houses, while others are used in schools to help teach children. These machines are making life easier, safer, and more efficient for many people.

However, there are concerns about robots taking jobs away from humans. People worry that robots could replace personal connections in areas like teaching or caregiving. Despite these challenges, robots continue to solve problems in creative ways. They are an exciting part of the world of technology.

RECORDING 44 (149 words)

Artificial Intelligence, or AI, is a type of technology that helps machines think and learn like humans. It is used in many areas, such as medicine, transportation, and education. Virtual assistants like Siri or Alexa use AI to answer questions, play music, or help with daily tasks.

AI is also used in smart cars that can drive themselves. In medicine, AI helps doctors detect diseases faster and more accurately. AI can translate languages, recommend movies, and even suggest products you might like. It makes everyday tasks easier and more efficient.

Some people worry about AI becoming too powerful or replacing human jobs. However, many experts believe that AI can work together with humans to solve big problems, like climate change or healthcare challenges. AI is a growing field that will continue to change how people live and work. It shows how technology can make life better when used responsibly.

RECORDING 45 (153 words)

Renewable energy technology is helping the world use cleaner and safer energy. Solar panels collect energy from the sun, while wind turbines create energy from the wind. These technologies are better for the environment because they do not produce harmful pollution like coal or oil.

Many homes now use solar panels to power lights and appliances. Wind farms, with large wind turbines, generate electricity for cities and towns. This clean energy helps reduce pollution and slows down climate change. Scientists are also working on other renewable energy sources, like hydropower and geothermal energy, to make the world more sustainable.

Renewable energy technology is growing quickly, but it can be expensive to install. Some places do not get enough sunlight or wind to use these systems effectively. However, scientists are improving these technologies to make them more affordable and efficient. Renewable energy is an important step toward a cleaner and healthier future for everyone.

RECORDING 46 (170 words)

Sarah is a talented painter who loves creating beautiful art. She started drawing when she was only five years old. Her parents noticed her talent when she drew a picture of a dog that looked very real. They bought her paints, brushes, and a canvas to help her practice. Sarah spends hours in her room painting pictures of animals, flowers, and nature.

Sarah's paintings are full of bright colors and small details. Her favorite subjects are birds and sunsets, which she paints from photos or her imagination. She also enjoys painting portraits of her friends and family. Her art teacher at school says Sarah has a natural gift for painting and often shows her work to other students for inspiration.

Sarah dreams of becoming a famous artist one day. She wants to open her own art gallery and teach children how to paint. She believes that art can make people happy and bring them together. Her talent shows that with hard work and passion, hobbies can turn into future careers.

RECORDING 47 (162 words)

Daniel is an amazing singer with a powerful voice. He discovered his talent when he joined his school choir at the age of eight. His teachers were impressed by his ability to hit high notes and sing with emotion. They encouraged him to perform in competitions and practice regularly.

Daniel practices singing every day after school. He loves singing pop songs, but he also enjoys classical music. His favorite singer is Ed Sheeran, and he tries to learn songs by listening to his albums. Last year, Daniel sang at a city competition and won first place. The audience gave him a big round of applause, and his family felt very proud of him.

Daniel believes that singing is more than just a talent—it's a way to express emotions and connect with people. He dreams of performing on big stages and inspiring others through his songs. His story shows that with practice, confidence, and a love for music, talent can lead to success.

RECORDING 48 (160 words)

Mia is a fast runner who loves competing in races. She discovered her talent during a school sports day when she won her first 100-meter race. Her coach noticed her speed and told her she had great potential. He encouraged her to join the school's athletics team.

Mia wakes up early every morning to train. She runs on the track, practices her starts, and works on her strength and stamina. Her favorite event is the 200-meter race because it combines speed and strategy. She also enjoys long-distance running during weekends. Last month, Mia participated in a city championship and won a gold medal, becoming a star in her school.

Mia dreams of representing her country in the Olympics. She believes that running is not only about being fast but also about discipline and determination. Her story inspires other students to work hard and believe in themselves. Mia shows that dedication and passion can turn a talent into a great achievement.

RECORDING 49 (156 words)

Carlos is a talented musician who plays the guitar beautifully. He started learning the guitar at the age of six. His grandfather, a retired musician, taught him the basics of chords and melodies. Carlos quickly fell in love with music and practiced every day after school.

Now, Carlos plays in his school band and writes his own songs. He loves playing classical music, but he also enjoys modern styles like rock and jazz. His favorite guitarist is Eric Clapton, and Carlos dreams of playing like him someday. He performed at a school concert last year, and the crowd cheered loudly for his performance.

Carlos dreams of becoming a professional musician and traveling the world. He wants to share his music with people from different cultures. Carlos believes music brings people together and spreads happiness. His talent, combined with his hard work, shows that music is not just a skill but also a way to inspire others.

RECORDING 50 (139 words)

Emma is a creative writer with a big imagination. She started writing short stories when she was seven years old. Her favorite stories are about magical places, brave characters, and exciting adventures. Her teachers always praise her creativity and unique ideas, saying her stories are like little movies.

Emma writes in her journal every evening. She finds inspiration in books, movies, and even everyday life. Her favorite author is J.K. Rowling, and she dreams of writing a fantasy book as popular as Harry Potter. Last year, Emma won a school writing competition with her story about a flying horse that saved a village. Her family and friends were very proud of her achievement.

Emma's dream is to become a famous author and publish books for children and adults. She believes writing is a way to share ideas and emotions with the world. Emma's talent for storytelling shows that words can inspire and connect people, bringing joy to everyone who reads her stories.

RECORDING 51 (161 words)

Traveling by plane is one of the fastest ways to go from one place to another. People use planes to visit countries or cities far away. Airports are busy places where travelers check in their luggage, get boarding passes, and go through security. After passing security, they wait in a lounge before boarding the plane.

Flying can be exciting, especially for first-time travelers. From the window seat, you can see clouds and the land far below. During the flight, passengers can relax, read books, or watch movies. Flight attendants serve drinks, meals, or snacks to make the journey comfortable. On long flights, some planes have entertainment systems with games and music.

While flying is fast and convenient, it can sometimes be expensive. Travelers often book tickets early or look for deals to save money. Although some people feel nervous about flying, planes are one of the safest ways to travel. Flying helps people explore the world quickly and experience new cultures.

RECORDING 52 (153 words)

Traveling to new countries is an exciting way to learn about the world. Each country has its own culture, food, and history. Travelers often visit famous landmarks, such as the Eiffel Tower in France, the Great Wall of China, or the pyramids in Egypt. They also try local dishes and learn a few words of the local language to connect with the people.

Traveling abroad helps people make new friends and understand different ways of life. For example, you might learn about traditional dances in Spain, taste sushi in Japan, or explore colorful markets in Morocco. These experiences make travel enjoyable and educational, giving travelers memories they can keep forever.

Preparing for international travel is important. Travelers need passports, visas, and sometimes vaccines. Learning about the country's customs helps avoid misunderstandings. Exploring new countries allows people to grow, discover new perspectives, and appreciate the diversity of the world. It's an adventure worth taking!

RECORDING 53 (156 words)

Some people travel for adventure and excitement. They enjoy activities like hiking in the mountains, diving in the ocean, or exploring jungles. Adventure travel is perfect for those who love challenges and the beauty of nature. Popular adventure destinations include places with incredible natural features, like waterfalls, caves, or volcanoes.

People often choose destinations like the Grand Canyon in the USA, Mount Everest in Nepal, or the Great Barrier Reef in Australia. These places offer unique activities such as climbing, rafting, snorkeling, or zip-lining. Adventure travel is not only fun but also helps people stay active and healthy. It allows travelers to connect with nature and experience thrilling moments.

However, adventure travel requires careful planning and safety. Travelers need to pack the right gear, follow guides, and respect local rules. Adventure travel creates unforgettable memories and teaches people to appreciate the world's beauty. With the right preparation, every adventure can be a story to remember forever.

RECORDING 54 (150 words)

Solo travel means exploring the world on your own. Many people enjoy solo travel because it gives them freedom and independence. They can choose where to go, what to do, and how long to stay. Solo travelers often create their own schedules and focus on what they love most.

Traveling alone also allows people to meet new friends. In hostels, cafes, or on group tours, solo travelers often connect with others who share their interests. It's also a great way to learn about yourself. Facing new challenges alone can help build confidence and independence.

While solo travel can be exciting, it requires careful planning. Travelers need to research their destination, book accommodations, and stay safe by sharing their plans with family or friends. With preparation, solo travel can be a rewarding way to explore the world and discover new experiences. It's an adventure full of personal growth and exciting memories.

RECORDING 55 (154 words)

Many people travel to relax and take a break from their busy lives. Beach destinations are popular for relaxing trips. People enjoy lying in the sun, swimming in the ocean, or listening to the sound of waves. These activities help them forget their worries and feel calm.

Others prefer quiet countryside areas or small villages. These places offer fresh air, beautiful views, and peaceful surroundings. Travelers can take walks in nature, enjoy local foods, or spend time reading and reflecting. Some people choose to visit wellness retreats, where they can practice yoga, meditate, and enjoy spa treatments.

Relaxing travel helps people feel refreshed and ready for new challenges. It's a chance to slow down, enjoy simple pleasures, and focus on personal well-being. Whether it's a weekend getaway or a long vacation, traveling to relax is a wonderful way to recharge and find peace. It reminds us to take care of ourselves and appreciate life.

RECORDING 56 (160 words)

A good friend is someone who is kind, loyal, and fun to be with. Friends listen to each other and share their feelings. They are there to celebrate happy moments and support each other during difficult times. True friends don't only care about their own needs; they always think about their friend's happiness too.

Good friends spend time together doing things they enjoy. They might play games, go for walks, or just sit and talk about their day. A true friend makes you laugh when you feel sad and helps you solve problems when life gets tough. They stand by you no matter what challenges come your way, offering strength and encouragement.

Friendship is built on trust and respect. Good friends don't judge each other and always try to understand. They forgive mistakes and make each other feel valued. A good friend is someone you can rely on, someone who brings joy and support into your life every single day.

RECORDING 57 (158 words)

Childhood friends are very special because they grow up together. They share their first experiences, like riding a bike, going to school, or learning a new game. These friends often know each other's secrets and dreams, creating a bond that feels like family. The memories made during childhood stay in the heart forever.

Childhood friends help each other learn and grow. They celebrate birthdays, study for exams, and support one another through challenges. Even small fights don't last long because the friendship is too important to lose. These friends often cheer the loudest when you succeed and comfort you the most when you are down.

As people grow older, they might move to different places, but childhood friends remain in their hearts. Many stay in touch through phone calls, messages, or visits. These friendships remind people of their younger days and the joy of having someone who knows them so well. Childhood friends are often friends for life.

RECORDING 58 (167 words)

Making new friends is an exciting way to meet people and learn about their lives. New friends bring fresh ideas, stories, and fun into your world. Whether you meet someone at school, work, or during a trip, building a friendship can be an amazing experience. Each new friend offers a chance to see the world in a different way.

To make new friends, it's important to be friendly and open. Smiling, asking questions, and showing interest in someone's hobbies can help start a conversation. Joining clubs, sports teams, or group activities is also a great way to meet people who share your interests. Friendship often begins with small moments that lead to bigger connections.

New friendships take time to grow, but they can become very special. Sharing laughs, supporting each other, and creating memories help build a strong bond. Making new friends is a way to expand your world and bring more happiness into your life. It's a gift that can change your life in wonderful ways.

RECORDING 59 (153 words)

Trust is one of the most important parts of friendship. A true friend is someone you can trust with your secrets, feelings, and dreams. They listen without judging and offer honest advice when you need it. Trust makes friendships strong and unbreakable. Without trust, a friendship can feel weak or uncertain.

Building trust takes time and effort. Friends show they are trustworthy by keeping promises, being reliable, and supporting each other in both good and bad times. For example, if you tell a friend a secret, you trust them not to share it with others. Small actions, like being there when needed, show that a friend truly cares.

When trust is broken, it can hurt deeply, but true friends work to fix their mistakes. They apologize, forgive, and rebuild the bond. Friendships built on trust last forever because they are based on honesty, care, and mutual respect. Trust makes friendships strong and meaningful.

RECORDING 60 (174 words)

Friendship knows no boundaries. People from different countries and cultures can become great friends. When you make friends with someone from another culture, you learn about their traditions, language, and way of life. For example, you might learn about the festivals they celebrate or how they greet each other in their culture. These friendships are exciting because they help you grow and understand the world better.

Sharing cultural experiences is both fun and educational. You might try new foods, like sushi from Japan or tacos from Mexico. You could celebrate their holidays, such as Chinese New Year or Eid, and learn the meanings behind these traditions. You might even pick up a few words in their language, like "hello" or "thank you." These moments create a strong bond between friends and help them appreciate each other's differences.

Friendship across cultures teaches us that kindness and care are universal. It shows that no matter where we come from, we all value love, trust, and respect. These friendships make the world smaller, friendlier, and more connected.

RECORDING 61 (165 words)

Every year, people in the West celebrate Easter. It is a very old Christian festival, even older than Christmas. At Easter, Christians remember the death of Jesus and his return to life. This is a special time for many people, and they celebrate with family gatherings, church services, and fun traditions.

Eggs are an important symbol of Easter. An egg represents the start of a new life, so it has a special meaning during the festival. Many Easter eggs are made of chocolate and come in beautiful silver wrapping. When kids open them, they find a chocolate egg in two halves with candies inside. Children love eating chocolate at Easter. Another tradition is to boil eggs and paint them in bright colors.

There are also bunnies at Easter. But why are rabbits connected to this holiday? Like eggs, rabbits are a symbol of new life, because they have many babies. This is why Easter eggs and bunnies are both important parts of this joyful celebration.

RECORDING 62 (155 words)

The United States has fifty states, each with its own unique features. The state with the largest population is California, while the largest state in area is Alaska. However, Alaska has the smallest population, and the smallest state in size is Rhode Island. The oldest states are those along the Atlantic coast, while the newest states are Alaska and Hawaii. Alaska is also the coldest state, while California and Florida are warmer.

On the Pacific coast, Seattle is a major city, but Los Angeles and San Francisco are even larger. However, the largest city in the United States is New York. Every year, thousands of people visit New York to see its famous landmarks.

The most important city in the United States is Washington, D.C., because it is the capital. However, it is much smaller than New York. Each of these states and cities plays an important role in the country's history, culture, and economy.

RECORDING 63 (164 words)

Before you travel to another country, it is very helpful to know the language and some customs of that place. Understanding how people greet each other can help avoid confusion.

In Britain, when people meet for the first time, they say "Hello" or "Nice to meet you" and shake hands. However, they do not usually shake hands every time they meet or say goodbye. They only shake hands after not seeing each other for a long time or when they will be apart for a long time.

Last year, a group of German students traveled to England for a holiday. Their teacher told them that English people rarely shake hands. So, when they met their English friends at the station, they kept their hands behind their backs. Meanwhile, the English students had learned that Germans shake hands often, so they put their hands out to shake hands. This funny situation made both groups laugh, showing how cultural differences can create unexpected and amusing moments.